Organisations and communication

Position of the course
The course unit ‘Organisations and communication’ (A40C) introduces various core aspects of corporate communication. To this end, the internal and external communication of organisations is placed in a cohesive framework and linked to the organisational structure of organisations. The role of multilingualism and intercultural communication is also brought up in this connection.

(Approved)

Contents

The course unit ‘Organisations and Communication’ (A4OC) offers an overview of various forms of communication: internal communication, corporate communication and marketing communication. Aspects that are covered include: identity and image, building a strong brand, internal communication in the event of changes, developing a communication plan and crisis communication. Much time is set aside for drawing up a communication plan. Alongside a theoretical survey of the field of study, an introduction to key concepts and models, theory is also tried out in practice. This is done by (i) cases, that pertain to the lesson content and (ii) guest lecturers that flesh out the different aspects of communication in organisations.

Initial competences

The general competences that may be expected from an academic bachelor, preferably in a course-related discipline.

Final competences

1. Having advanced knowledge of communication processes related to the internal communication of organisations, and based on that knowledge, reflecting on the communication of organisations.

   [MC. 1.3, evaluation]

2. Having advanced knowledge of communication processes related to the external communication of organisations, and based on that knowledge, reflecting on the communication of organisations.

   [MC. 1.4, evaluation]

3. Independently contributing to scientific research relating to one or more specialisms within, or connected to, the topics of communication, multilingualism and intercultural aspects.

   [MC.2.1, evaluation]

4. Communicating on their own research with both a broad and specialised audience, both orally and in writing.

   [MC 2.4, evaluation]

5. Actively following new developments both within the discipline of communication in organisations and multilingual, intercultural contexts, and within the general context of language and culture, reflecting on these critically and placing them in a broad social and intercultural context.

   [MC 3.1, evaluation]

6. Underpinning their views in a scientifically justified manner and sharing these with both lay people and colleagues in a coherent and clear manner.

   [MC 3.2, evaluation]

7. Making adequate use of the acquired insights into the communication of organisations.

   [MC. 6.3, evaluation]
