Extra information on the examination methods

Students will be evaluated based on (i) a written state-of-the-art of a topic in limnological research, (ii) a lecture on this topic given to their peers, (iii) an interactive discussion after the lecture, and (iv) their participation in the discussions after the microteaching lectures of their peers.

Calculation of the examination mark

The final exam score comprises the evaluation of the written state-of-the-art (40%), the microteaching lecture (20%), the questions & answer session after the lecture (20%), and the participation during the Q&A session following the presentations given by the other students (20% of the final score).
