Keywords

Municipal and province taxes, Actual tax authority of the regions , Inheritance tax, gift tax, sales law and distribution law

Position of the course

Local taxes: As more and more local governments are searching for new sources of income in order to finance the expenses, which are attended by the extended competences, the importance of local taxes has increased considerably in recent years.

The jurisdiction also shows that disputes are increasing, whereby an insight in the matter is necessary.

The same applies to the regional taxation.

Regional taxes: The regions have the disposal of a fiscal autonomy which is used to introduce new taxes.

In addition, a number of Federal taxes were transferred to the regions, such as legacy duties and registration fees, about which the Flemish legislator has included a separate regulation in the Flemish code taxation, under the heading of inheritance tax, gift tax, sales law and distribution law.

The purpose of this part of the training consists in obtaining insights in the fiscal competences of the local and regional authorities, the restrictions of these competences, the rules regarding the settlement and collection of the taxes, and so on/etc.
