Keywords

German, literary studies, 19th Century German literature

Position of the course

This advanced course teaches students to be proficient in German on an advanced level and helps them acquire an advanced linguistic awareness. The course offers an advanced scientific insight in the specific characteristics of literary texts and the ways in which literature functions historically.

Contents

In this course, the evolution of German literature in and surrounding the 19th century is dealt with, by means of specific case studies. By studying representative texts, students are not only familiarised with historical and ideological backgrounds and the aesthetical principles and programmes, but are also invited to actively cooperate in text analysis and literary critical argumentation.

The course deals with changing attitudes towards education, childhood and coming-of-age. Romanticism is characterised by an idealisation of childhood (Jean Paul), which leads to a typical incrimination of Enlightenment ideals and figurations of education (e.g. in E.T.A. Hoffmann). Despite very upbeat philosophical plans to reform education (Goethe; Humboldt), however, schooling remains a privilege of the happy few, while the doubtful practices of "Schwarze Pädagogik" persist well into the 20th Century. We discuss rites of passage in text of the main currents of 19th Century German literature, e.g. Vormärz, Biedermeier, Realism and Naturalism, which allows us to articulate a counter-history of the influential genre of the Bildungsroman.

Conditions for credit contract

Access to this course unit via a credit contract is unrestricted: the student takes into consideration the conditions mentioned in 'Starting Competences'

Conditions for exam contract

Access to this course unit via an exam contract is unrestricted

Teaching methods

Seminar, Lecture, Independent work

Extra information on the teaching methods

- Lecture (30h)
- Practicum: the students develop their research skills by means of three exercises. The first exercise aims at their search strategies; for the second students define a problem to be analysed; the third exercise aims at a detailed analysis of a specific text fragment. The latter two are short composition exercises. The students get generic information about the way in which they can handle the exercises and receive individual feedback about their research skills. Students are also encouraged to participate in the film screenings and lectures belonging to the studium generale.
- Independent work (7.5h)

Possibilities of retake in case of permanent assessment

examination during the second examination period is possible

Extra information on the examination methods

Assessment moment

Periodical: exam (80%) and non-periodical: continuous assessment (20%)

(If a student does not pass the non-periodical evaluation, a second chance is offered by means of a compensatory activity between the first and second exam period.)

Assessment form

- Written exam (open book with 4 questions on insight), completed by an oral exam with written preparation. In the second exam period, new problems will be introduced.
- Portfolio evaluation: assessment of each of the three tutorium exercises (interpretive bibliography, definition of a research problem; analysis of a text fragment)
- Students can obtain an extra credit by reporting on extracurricular activities as part of their 'Bonusprogramm'.

Language proficiency is an important part of the course's evaluation. Students are encouraged to learn from feedback on test versions of written texts, to partake in in-class discussions, but also to take advantage of any opportunity to immerse themselves in the language (by consulting television and online news media etc.). The level to be reached is detailed in the "course description" above.

Calculation of the examination mark

Written exam: 40%

Oral exam: 40%

Portfolio: 20%

Students who participate in the bonus programme, can earn an extra bonus mark if the quality of the report meets criteria.

Those with a failing grade for either of the two end-of-term forms of assessment cannot pass the course as a whole. If the final score would nevertheless be a mark of 10 or more out of 20, this will be reduced to the highest unsuccessful mark (i.e. 9/20). If one does not participate in the evaluation of one or more components, one can no longer pass the course unit as a whole and the final grade, if higher than 7/20, will be reduced to the highest non-deliverable grade (i.e. 7/20).

The extra bonus mark can only be awarded to students who pass the course as a whole.

Facilities for Working Students

1 Although attendance is highly desirable, working students may be exempted from attendance. For those classes where active participation is evaluated (e.g., tutorials), you will need to complete a substitute task that demonstrates your attainment of the intended competencies. The substitute task will be communicated to you by the instructors.

2 The exam can be scheduled at a different time within the academic year.

3 You can receive feedback at times other than those designated, preferably through conversations (on campus or online), both during and after office hours, or via email.
