Keywords

Middle Ages, history

Position of the course

This basic course wants to offer insight into the historical developments which have occurred in Europe between c. 400 and c. 1500 and to point out the importance of these developments for the course of history until today.

Contents

Survey of the history of Europe in the Middle Ages, with special emphasis on the major trends and the most important long-term evolutions. Special attention is paid to the interaction between political, institutional, economic, social, religious and cultural factors and to answering the question how the western Middle Ages, and the confrontation of the West with both the Byzantine Empire and the world of Islam, have contributed to the leading role of Europe in the globalisation of later ages. Every topic takes a recognisable witness of the Middle Ages in the actual town of Ghent as point of departure, in order to deal with this topic from a broader, European perspective.

Initial competences

Final attainment level of history education in Flemish Secondary schools

Final competences

- 1 Have proficient knowledge of the historical terminological framework, the most important historical facts, and historical explanations.
- 2 Have a referential framework for the medieval history of the Low Countries in an international context.
- 3 Have a referential framework for the medieval period.
- 4 Have the ability to critically reflect upon the role of the global perspective, the dynamics of processes, and recurrences in historical situations, especially in Western-Europe, the Byzantine world and the world of Islam during the Middle Ages.
- 5 To display cultural sensitivity and the ability to reflect about continuity and change in a long-term perspective.
