Position of the course

This general introductory course familiarizes students with the nature and diversity of philosophical thought through a historical overview.

Contents

The course provides an overview of the history of philosophy, from antiquity to the twentieth century. It examines how philosophical thought was shaped by the historical context in which it developed, and how, in turn, it helped shape that context. This is always done from a global perspective, with attention to developments in different parts of the world and to the ways in which they could influence each other mutually.

The historical overview offers students points of orientation that enable them to gain knowledge about important developments and ideas. At the same time, it introduces them to the typical forms of abstraction and conceptual articulation characteristic of philosophical thinking.

Initial competences

No specific prerequisites.

Final competences

- 1 Be able to correctly interpret central philosophical concepts.
- 2 Have knowledge of important authors in the history of philosophy.
- 3 Have knowledge of key developments in philosophical thought.
- 4 Be able to situate philosophical thinking within its historical context.
