Position of the course

This advanced course provides students with a thorough survey of Dutch literary history of the nineteenth, twentieth and twentyfirst century. The course focuses on the developments in prose in the Netherlands and Flanders. The survey is chronological with attention to specific problems (genres, themes, intercultural affinities) per century.

Contents

The course offers a historical survey of the novel from Romanticism until the present in the Netherlands and Flanders. For each period, the course discusses the context as well as representative texts:

1. Romanticism and Realism
2. The introduction of the modern novel: Multatuli
3. Naturalism and Symbolism
4. Interbellum prose
5. Late Modernism and Neo-Avant-Garde
6. Postmodernism and Late Postmodernism

Three sessions in smaller groups are devoted to specific problems from literary history and literary interpretation. The students dig deeper into these problems through the literature on those topics or through specific cases.

Initial competences

- To have completed the course Dutch literature I-IV or to have acquired the necessary skills by other means.
- To have studied a survey of Dutch literature, from its origins until the 19th century and modernism
- To be able to identify and situate names, titles, schools and genres.

Final competences

- 1 The student acquires a general survey of the development of Dutch literature in the discussed period.
- 2 The student is able to situate important authors and works within their historical context.
- 3 The student acquires knowledge of the structural and stylistic characteristics of the genres and texts that have been dealt with in the lectures.
- 4 The student has a clear insight into the thematic and formal relationship between the texts of the reading list and the presented survey of developments and movements.
