Teaching languages

Dutch

Keywords

Vulgar and Late Latin, language change, language variation, birth of Romance

Position of the course

The course gives an overview of the characteristics of so-called Vulgar and Late Latin and of their further development into Romance

Contents

The course consists of two sections:

- (1) theoretical introduction on so-called Vulgar and Late Latin: birth and development of the research field, definition of Vulgar Latin, main characteristics as compared to Classical Latin, sources, significance for the development of language;
- (2) in-class reading and discussion of selected texts from the imperial period

Initial competences

Good command of Classical Latin. The course builds on the competences acquired in Latin Linguistics I.

Final competences

- 1 To understand and comment on Latin non-classical texts
- 2 To distinguish the main features of so called Vulgar Latin
- 3 To recognize the most important Late Latin features
- 4 To explain the relation between Classical and non-standard Latin
- 5 To distinguish the similarities and differences between the pre-classical and the late language
- 6 To understand the most relevant diachronic changes taking place in the development of Latin towards the Romance languages (focus on phonology and morphology)
- 7 To have an overview of all sources written in non-classical Latin (inscriptions, bible translations, itineraria etc.)

8 To indicate and explain the main phonological changes taking place in the (Proto-)Romance vocalic system.

9 To translate and understand the statements of ancient Latin grammarians

10 To distinguish different proposals to chronologize the transition Latin/Romance languages

11 To write an essay over a research problem concerning Latin linguistics
