Position of the course

This advanced course helps students understand the different philosophical systems of East-Asia. The course gives the students insight into how the different philosophies of East Asia were formed by East-Asian culture and how they have shaped these cultures. The course shows students the importance of these philosophies for contemporary China and Japan.

Contents

East Asia philosophies are explained in their socio-political context. For China, the philosophies discussed are Confucianism, Daoism, Mohism, Legalism, Neo-Confuciansim, and modern developments of Chinese philosophy. For Japan, Shintoism, Buddhism, early Confucianism, Neo-Confucianism, its main critics, and some of the main ideologies of the modern period, such as Liberalism, Nationalism, Socialism, or Feminism.

The importance of these traditional philosophical systems for a good understanding of the contemporary political, social and economical situation of East-Asia is illustrated. The adaptation of these different systems to historical and contemporary situations is explained.

Initial competences

To have successfully completed the courses 'History of Philosophy' (BA1, for Sinology and Japanology), 'History of China' (BA1, for Sinology) and 'History of Japan' (BA1, for Japanology), or to have acquired the necessary skills by other means.

Final competences

- 1 To be able to explain the different philosophical systems of East Asia.
- 2 To be able to explain the mutual influence the different philosophical systems have had.
- 3 To be able to explain social and political phenomena in the history of East Asia from the philosophical traditions of East Asia.
- 4 To be able to explain the present-day social, economical and political phenomena of East Asia from the philosophical traditions.

Extra information on the examination methods

Assessment moment

Periodical: exam (100%)

Assessment form

A written examination (open and closed questions) tests the student's comprehension of the philosophical statements discussed during the classes and philosophical statements from the reading list. The examination focuses on the understanding of philosophical statements and on their understanding of the mutual interactions of philosophies and their social impact.

There is a separate examination for sinology and for japanology students.

Calculation of the examination mark

Both for sinology and for japanology students, the examination amount to 100 % of the final mark.

Students have to pass both parts of the periodical assessment (Japan: classical Chinese philosophy / religion + Japanese philosophy / religion; China: classical Chinese philosophy / religion + post-Song Dynasty until modern Chinese philosophy / religion).

Students who obtain a mark of less than 10/20 for one of the two parts cannot pass the course evaluation. Should the average mark be higher than 10/20, the final mark will be reduced to the highest non-pass mark (= 9).

Facilities for Working Students

1. Student attendance during educational activities is required
2. Possible rescheduling of the examination to a different time in the same academic year
3. Feedback can be given by email or during an appointment during office hours
