Position of the course

This course offers a further in-depth study and practice of the Sanskrit language and philology. Students are familiarized with different types of Sanskrit texts and with complex grammatical structures of the Sanskrit language. Students learn to translate under supervision advanced Sanskrit texts and to use Sanskrit dictionaries and linguistic works. They also will be familiarized with commentaries and alternative readings. The course helps students to understand and explain developments in Sanskrit and kindred languages, and shows what a critical edition of a Sanskrit text is and how such an edition is made (philology).

Contents

- Grammar structures of Sanskrit are further explored by means of reading and analysing extracts from important literary (kavya) or technical (śāstra) texts of classical Sanskrit. Attention is paid to philological issues such as the diachronic developments of words and the compilation of critical text editions. Special attention is given to the commentarial tradition of Sanskrit literature.
- Introduction to and guided reading of narrative Buddhist texts (avadāna)

Initial competences

To have successfully completed the courses Sanskrit III and IV or to have acquired the necessary skills by other means.

Final competences

- 1 Being able to identify, translate, analyse and interpret a Sanskrit text
- 2 To be able to consult Sanskrit dictionaries and linguistic works independently for translating or the study of Sanskrit texts
- 3 To be able to critically address grammatical questions
- 4 To obtain an insight into the compilation of critical text editions
