research paper

Position of the course

In the final stage of the transition program, the student is required to demonstrate his academic skills by writing a research paper of about 10,000 words: presentation and analysis of academic literature in international languages; basic knowledge of current literary and linguistic theories; writing skills. The Research paper is linked to a Research seminar for each language and/or discipline. See also: <http://www.schrijven.ugent.be/onderzoekspaper>. Students are also required to attend a research seminar related to the topic of the paper (linguistics or literature of a particular language, or general literature). Students who work on a topic related to Classical Languages (linguistics or literature) attend the seminar of Classical Languages.

Contents

Dependent on research topic.

See <http://www.schrijven.ugent.be/onderzoekspaper> for more information on the writing process, and especially as concerns a bachelor's thesis in Taal- en Letterkunde.

The website also provides lists per discipline which mention all possible topics. These lists are updated at the beginning of each academic year.

Initial competences

To have successfully completed the transition program or to have acquired the necessary skills by other means

Final competences

- 1 To be able to have an overview of a well delimited field of study
- 2 To be able to present and judge the academic literature on a given topic in a critical way.
- 3 To be able to indicate directions for further research.
- 4 To have basic academic writing skills in the respective languages studied (or in Dutch, for the classical languages, and - sometimes - for general linguistics or literary theory)
- 5 To be able to elaborate a relevant research question in linguistics or literature.
- 6 To be able to perform one's own research under guidance in linguistics or literature.
- 7 To be able to critically reflect on the own research question, results and methodology.
