Position of the course

This advanced course helps to improve the language proficiency in Dutch in a variety of (oral and written) textgenres. Students learn more about a variety of professional domains through guest lectures of language professionals.

Contents

During the lesson, we practice writing skills in different text genres. In addition, students do one oral assignment during class. The series of lessons is supplemented with independent work at home, in the form of exercises, video lessons and assignments. Finally, there will be a number of guest lectures by language professionals.

Initial competences

Those who register for this course have preferably successfully completed the course Nederlandse Taalkunde II: Taalgebruik, or have acquired the final competences that are intended in it in another way. This course requires a thorough command of Dutch at C2 level and prior knowledge of language care.

Final competences

1 Students are aware of the formal and stylistic differences between journalistic, business and advertising texts. They master all these genres at an advanced level.

- 2 Students show excellent command of Dutch, both orally and in writing.
- 3 Students know the basics of business writing. They can write a business text on an imposed topic.
- 4 Students know the basics of clear writing. They can indicate why a text is not clear. They can identify the stylistic and linguistic problems and edit the text so that it is easy to read for a large audience.
- 5 Students know the basics of recruiting writing. They can write a promotional text on an assigned topic. They are also able to make a less good promotional text stronger.
- 6 Students know the basics of journalistic writing. They can write a journalistic text on an assigned subject.
- 7 Students know the basics of presenting well in front of an audience. They can clearly explain a complex topic to an audience and know what rhetorical devices they can use to include the audience in their presentation or argument.
- 8 Students can record a text in audio or video with neat pronunciation and intelligent intonation.
- 9 Students have insight into how they can use AI to improve their texts.

Extra information on the examination methods

The students do various writing and speaking assignments.

e.g. (in writing) a cover letter + CV, an interview article, an editing assignment, a promotional text, a popular science article.

e.g. (orally) an analysis, news reading, interview, pitch.

The assignments may differ per academic year, depending on, among other things, the input of external speakers from the field.

GAI may be used for all assignments, except for the editing assignment that takes place during the lesson.

Calculation of the examination mark

Writing skills : 70 %

Oral skills : 30 %

If you do not participate in one or more assignments, you can no longer pass the course as a whole. If the average final score is a grade of ten or more out of twenty, this will be reduced to the highest unpassed grade (=9).
