Position of the course

This course, pitched at the graduate academic level (master), builds on the knowledge and skills acquired in a BA-degree programma of Arabic and Islamic Studies, or equivalent. The course brings together various academic subjects that involve the modern and contemporary Middle East and North Africa, its study within a —especially— political sciences context, and Arabic language proficiency at intermediate to advanced levels.

Contents

This course consists of two closely intertwined components: contexts, and language and texts

- 1 Contexts: thorough study in modular seminars (optional modules), from various empirically as well as theoretically informed perspectives, of relevant themes and cases. These are annually selected in the context of contemporary relevance and/or the scholarly priorities of students and teacher. Subjects that may be considered include: politics of gender and identity, political economy of the Middle East or North Africa, revolution and resistance, local and global ...
- 2 Language and Texts: productive training of speaking and writing skills in Egyptian and Modern Standard Arabic, at intermediate to advanced levels, with reading and listening assignments that are always closely related to the subjects discussed in the contexts component.

Initial competences

Ba in Arabic and Islamic Studies, or equivalent (including academic knowledge at undergraduate level of the history of the Middle East, and intermediate knowledge of Egyptian and Modern Standard Arabic).

Final competences

Assessment moments

continuous assessment

Examination methods in case of periodic assessment during the first examination period

Examination methods in case of periodic assessment during the second examination period

Examination methods in case of permanent assessment

Participation, Assignment

Possibilities of retake in case of permanent assessment examination during the second examination period is possible in modified form

Extra information on the examination methods

Continuous assessment: preparation and active participation, including papers and presentations (detailed information will be provided at the start of the course)

Calculation of the examination mark

Contexts : 70 % (continuous assessment)

Language & Texts : 30 % (continuous assessment)

Students who do not participate in (a part of) the assessment, or have a mark below 10/20 for one of the components (Contexts, Language/Texts), automatically fail the entire course. Final marks higher than 10/20 will, in this case, be reduced to the highest mark that does not qualify for automatic upgrade ('deliberation').

A pass mark for one of the components means that the assessment of that component does not need to be retaken in case of a resit. However, the student is always entitled to still take the full second examination opportunity if he/she does not yet pass the entire course unit. The last examination grade obtained is the one counting when calculating the final result.
