Teaching languages

Dutch, Greek

Keywords

Modern Greek literature, poetry, Greek language Question, cultural history of modern Greece

Position of the course

The student will read and analyze Greek poetry from the 1880-1980 period, primarily from a literary and cultural-historical perspective. An additional focus is the poets' use of language and the development of Greek language issues in the 19th and 20th centuries. The poems are read in the original Greek, but the main language of the course is Dutch.

Contents

- close reading of poems from traditional Greek folk poetry and from the works of, primarily, Palamas, Kariotakis, Cavafy, Seferis and Ritsos
- situating the poems in literary movements and in their cultural-historical context (the Greek world between 1830 and 1974)
- analysis of the 'Greek Language Question' in theory and practice, in the 19th and 20th centuries

Initial competences

A good basic knowledge of Modern Greek (reading skills at least A2), acquired during the bachelor training (Modern Greek Language Proficiency 1) or an equivalent course.

Final competences

- 1 Have an understanding of the major developments in Modern Greek poetry (1830-1974)
- 2 To have basic insight in the linguistic development of Modern Greek.
- 3 Using appropriate tools, understand and interpret Modern Greek poetry (19th- and 20th-century) and link it to features of literary movements, cultural-historical developments and language use in a given period.

Conditions for credit contract

Access to this course unit via a credit contract is unrestricted: the student takes into consideration the conditions mentioned in 'Starting Competences'

Conditions for exam contract

This course unit cannot be taken via an exam contract

Teaching methods

Seminar, Independent work

Extra information on the teaching methods

The seminars focus on the analysis of Greek poetry, in Dutch. Students do preparatory work at home (first exploratory reading, reading articles on cultural-historical context and Greek language issues).

Exchange students whose mother tongue is Greek will get alternative assignments focusing on less known poems of the mentioned poets.
