Teaching methods

Seminar, Lecture, Independent work

Extra information on the teaching methods

In the work seminars, it will be demonstrated how GAI can be used for the translation of medieval texts.

This course is based on responsible use of generative artificial intelligence (GAI).

During the series of classes, it will be explained what this entails.

The lectures are recorded. The recordings are available upon request for working students and for those students with special facilities (BST students) who have explicitly been granted access to the lecture recordings. The work seminars are not recorded.

Assessment form

Formal lecture and 3/4 of the exercises: written exam (periodical) concerning the topics and texts dealt with, according to the final competences.

1/4 of the exercises: assignment (non-periodical).

Calculation of the examination mark

The formal lecture and the exercises each count for 50% of the total. The non-periodical part of the exercises counts for 1/4 of the total of the exercises. Passing the entire course is only possible if the student passes both parts (formal lecture and exercises) separately. If the student passes mathematically for the whole, but does not obtain half of the total score of one of both parts, then he or she gets 9/20 as final score.

In the case of an unjustified absence or non-participation for (one of the parts of) the evaluation, the student will receive a non-deliberative final score (max. of 7/20). This goes for the periodical as well as for (the different parts of) the non-periodical assessment moments. If the student has a score of 75% for the assignment, this partial score can be transferred to the second examination period.

Nota bene: if a student violates the d/t-rules two times or more in the written parts (formal lecture and exercises) of the periodical evaluation, (s)he will lose 1 point for every mistake (s)he makes in the part concerned (formal lecture and/or exercises), with a maximum of 3 penalty point for every part. In the evaluation of the written parts of the non-periodical evaluation, content, style, spelling and the incorporating and correct reporting of the used sources will be taken into account.

Facilities for Working Students
