Position of the course

This study unit links up with and builds on the writing competences acquired in 'Language Acquisition II (Literary Texts)' from the first bachelor year. It aims to refresh and deepen general German language skills with a view to academic written language use on the one hand, and reflecting on texts and text production on the other. The various linguistic resources and stylistic elements typical of different academic text types are analysed and practised.

Special attention is paid to writing, as preparation for writing Bachelor's and Master's theses.

Contents

This unit of study includes

- grammar, vocabulary and style exercises;
- text-linguistic reflection exercises (with preparatory reading);
- practical assignments on producing and structuring texts, including written syntheses of several source texts in German.

Initial competences

The final objectives of the various German units of study of the first bachelor year.

Final competences

- 1 Having a command of German at C1 level of the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages for written skills (reading and writing)
- 2 Having knowledge and understanding of text production
- 3 Based on acquired competences, taking joint responsibility and being a team player in 1 team in order to produce coherent and linguistically adequate texts.
- 4 Being aware of the values and standards on which scientists base their work, while respecting the intellectual property of others.
- 5
- 6 Editing text independently in German and assessing it critically, thereby justifying the text type appropriate to the purpose, target group and media.
- 7 Using relevant dictionaries and electronic aids adequately, efficiently and critically.
- 8 Assessing the usefulness of information technology applications for text production (team-based or otherwise) and using them adequately.
