Keywords

French; Grammar, translation of Dutch into French.

Position of the course

The unit of study "French: Lexical en grammatical structures" consolidates and deepens the language skills that the students acquired during their first bachelor year, both in terms of foreign language and translation. This knowledge must allow the students to use their knowledge in morphology, syntax semantics and pragmatics when translating/writing in French. The skills practised during this course are necessary to be successfully pass the third bachelor year. Exchange students may take up just the _MS module, worth 3 credits, of this course unit. No knowledge of Dutch is required for this module.

Contents

The unit of study "French: Lexical en grammatical structures" is made up of the following parts: • morphological and syntactic structures (F2SC_MS)

• interpreting and translation into French (F2PC_IS)

F2SC_MS: This part aims to transform explicit knowledge into implicit knowledge. It is based on three mainstays: the (critical) deepening of some grammar aspects; the application of the subject material in a wider context; the (creative) re-use of the studied subject matter. The topic is dealt with in a contrasted way when it is appropriate.

F2PC_IS: This component includes translation exercises from Dutch into French and involves comprehension and translation of all kinds of texts. Certain exercises are based on subject matter covered in the subcourse _MS. The interpretative translation model is used to help students gain an insight into texts. The students learn to realise that the translation process revolves around the transmission of messages. Alongside this, the students are given extra vocabulary to process.
