Keywords

General courses and theme courses; Organisations and communication; Corporate Communication; Internal communication; External communication; PR; Crisis communication.

Position of the course

The course unit 'Organisations and communication' (A40C) introduces various core aspects of corporate communication. To this end, the internal and external communication of organisations is placed in a cohesive framework and linked to the organisational structure.

Contents

The course unit 'Organisations and Communication' (A40C) familiarizes students with core aspects of communication from organizations with a variety of stakeholders. Both internal and external communication of organizations are discussed and connected to the organizational structure. Aspects that are covered include: identity, image and reputation, internal communication, corporate social responsibility, community relations, employee ambassadorship, developing a communication plan and crisis communication. Alongside a theoretical survey of the field of study and an introduction to key concepts and models, theory is also tried out in practice. This is done by cases that pertain to the lesson content, guest lectures that flesh out the different aspects of communication in organisations and a visit to a communication agency or communication department.

Initial competences

The general competences that may be expected from an academic bachelor, preferably in a course-related discipline.

Final competences

- 1 Having advanced knowledge of communication processes related to the internal communication of organisations, and based on that knowledge, reflecting on the communication of organisations.
[MC. 1.3, evaluation]
- 2 Having advanced knowledge of communication processes related to the external communication of organisations, and based on that knowledge, reflecting on the communication of organisations.
[MC. 1.4, evaluation]
- 3 Having a critical understanding of international specialist literature in the field of intercultural and multilingual communication, with an eye for new trends and different methodologies.
[MC. 2.2, evaluation]
- 4 Critically applying theoretical models and methods of analysis to complex problems.

[MC. 2.3, evaluation]
- 5 Actively following new developments both within the discipline of communication in organisations and multilingual, intercultural contexts, and within the general context of language and culture, reflecting on these critically and placing them in a broad social and intercultural context.
[MC 3.1, evaluation]
- 6 Underpinning their views in a scientifically justified manner and sharing these with both lay people and colleagues in a coherent and clear manner.
[MC 3.2, evaluation]
- 7 Making adequate use of the acquired insights into the communication of organisations.
[MC. 6.3, evaluation]

Written exam (100%)

Calculation of the examination mark

- Periodic evaluation: the written exam tests the knowledge about the field, using multiple choice questions and open questions.

- Participation in the excursion, a company visit, is mandatory. Non-legitimate absence (or failing to fulfill an individual assignment instead) results in the subtraction of two points.

Facilities for Working Students

-Absence from the lectures is not recommended, but allowed. Additional support materials are not automatically provided for all classes.

-A catch-up exam can be taken within the regular exam period: the work student can join the catch-up day for students who were sick.

-There is a possibility of feedback by appointment with the lecturer.
