Position of the course

The aim of the course unit German: Public communication (D4C1) is to teach students the adequate use of communication techniques which are typically applied in the public communication of specific organisations. Students learn to apply these techniques in correct German, both orally and in writing. The objective is thus twofold: to teach and hone skills used in typical public communication in general and to improve the skills in German, in particular.

Exchange students may take up this course unit, for which no prior knowledge of Dutch is required.

Contents

Based on a concrete setting, various techniques are discussed that are typically used in public communication. These techniques are taught and consolidated in set tasks as appropriate for the setting in question. D4C1 is conceived as a single communication project which integrates various communication techniques, both oral and written.

Initial competences

Students are able to

- produce written German texts of considerable difficulty as appropriate in professional contexts;
- express themselves fluently in spoken German, as appropriate in professional contexts;
- put the appropriate heuristic aids to adequate and critical use.
