Position of the course

The study unit 'Italian: oral skills' (I3MV) builds on the oral competences acquired during the second bachelor year and aims to perfect listening and speaking skills. At the end of the course, the students are expected to be able to use the Italian language effectively and flexibly for both social and professional (academic and other) purposes and should, in doing so, be able to formulate their ideas and opinions with due precision.

Contents

The study unit "Italian: oral skills" (I3MV) is based on recent audiovisual material that allows students to get into direct contact with the genuine spoken Italian language and its (particularly diaphasic) varieties. The course content is based upon a number of contemporary themes, developed through exercises and role-playing. The selected themes are from the Italian cultural world, and refer to both cultural and professional life. Students should be able to discuss these themes and must be able to handle different styles (narration style, argumentation, description, etc.).

Initial competences

The final objectives of the various Italian study units of the second bachelor year
