Position of the course

The aim of this course unit is to offer a comprehensive approach to the lexicogrammar of Spanish. On the one hand, students will learn to recognise and analyze the more complex grammatical structures of Spanish, to look up information about them in a reference book, and to use them in targeted exercises. On the other hand, students will gain insight into the structure of the lexicon, paying attention to semantic relations, and the interface between the lexicon and the syntax, in the form of meaning bearing constructions.

With regard to language proficiency, the foundations are laid for a B2 level at the end of Bachelor 2 and C1 at the end of Bachelor 3.

Contents

1. A systematic treatment of a wide range of grammatical subjects, using the New Reference of Modern Grammar by Butt, Benjamins & Moreira Rodríguez (6th edition, Routledge). In the theoretical approach, the main points of attention are explained, with a focus on those matters that are of direct importance for a correct command of the language:

- * a correct use of the modifying elements for nouns [articles, demonstratives, possessive pronouns];
- * correct use of the verbal modes in complex sentence structures;
- * the a acusativo;
- * a good understanding of the use of tenses;
- * correct use of the grammatical and lexical functions of the pronominal "se";

The exercises focus on systematic practice (using the workbook of authors Howkins, Pountain & de Carlos, 4th edition, Routledge), as well as the ability to locate specific information in the Grammar.

2. A treatment of the main principles of lexicogrammar, the dimension where lexicon and grammar meet. Some important phenomena:

- * the use of "ser" and "estar", and the relationship between the semantics of these verbs and the different grammatical constructions they control;
- * word combinations that carry a non-compositional meaning;
- * constructions such as verb + noun (with or without article, e.g.) that impose a semantic pattern on the underlying semantic concepts;
- * paradigmatic and morphological relationships between words belonging to the same word family;
- * the effects of metaphorisation or shifts in meaning on the combinatory potential of words.

Initial competences

The final objectives of the various Spanish study units of the first bachelor year.

Final competences
