Position of the course

The main purpose of the course "Turkish: Grammar C" (T2SC) is to thoroughly expand the knowledge that was gained in Turkish: Grammar A and Turkish: Grammar B and to make the connection between theory and practice of the Turkish language use (oral and written). More specifically, the students are familiarized with the verbal diathesis and the syntax of the complex sentence (complement clause, relative clause, conditional clause, gerund clause,...). The passive knowledge of the grammar is a tool for text analysis, which precedes the Turkish-Dutch translation. The active knowledge of the grammar finds its application in the Dutch-Turkish translation and free text production in Turkish.

Contents

In the course "Turkish: Grammar C" (T2SC) the verbal diathesis section elaborates on the formation and use of passive, causative, the combination of both and the double causative. In the section on the complex sentences, the different types of complement clauses, relative clauses, conditional clauses and gerund clauses are studied. The students learn to use a variety of reference works to solve grammatical problems.
