Keywords

Dutch as a Foreign Language; Dutch for non-native speakers

Position of the course

This course unit aims at students who do not have Dutch as a mother tongue and who have a command of Dutch at the B2 level of the Common European Framework.

More specifically the aim of the course is that:

- The students can understand more difficult, longer texts on a variety of topics and recognize their implicit meaning.
- The students can express themselves clearly - both orally and in writing - and can use language effectively for social, academic and professional purposes.
- The students can communicate fluently and spontaneously, so that the interaction with native speakers is smooth.
- The students can also produce clear, well-structured and detailed oral and written texts on complex subjects, using appropriate linking words in the process.
- The students can explain their viewpoints orally or in writing on any given topic, setting out the pros and cons, as well as different options. (CEFR C1)

Contents

In "Dutch as a foreign language: Proficiency II" the students practice their:

- Speaking and conversation skills: presentations and advanced-level conversation exercises.
- Listening skills: listening exercises based on authentic audiovisual material.
