Introduction to language and culture; German

Position of the course

"Introduction to Language and Culture: German" (K4DU) aims to help students extend their practical competence in one of the available foreign languages (in this instance, German). Emphasis is placed upon oral communication skills, and to a lesser extent written communication, within an overarching business context e.g. job applications, presentations, meetings, etc. with particular attention given to work-place situations that the student may encounter in the near future. Exchange students may take up this course unit, for which no prior knowledge of Dutch is required.

Contents

"Introduction to Language and Culture: German" focuses on speaking and listening, and to a lesser extent on writing in realistic business situations. A foundation of grammar is provided alongside relevant exercises. Vocabulary is studied throughout the term of the course. The learning materials are organized thematically.
