Position of the course

Building on previous knowledge, this course aims to give students insight into terminological and technological support used by professional translators. Students gain a sound grounding in the theory of terminology and terminology management and gain hands-on experience with a number of common translation programs. The course gives students the necessary practical skills to support them during other translation courses but also aims to stimulate critical reflection on CAT tools.

Contents

During the first classes, students get to see the bigger picture: which kinds of translation technology exist? Why are they important? What are the factors that determine the strategy a translator will use?

The rest of the course focuses on two core aspects: terminology and translation technology.

The first part, on terminology, covers the following:

- fundamental principles of the theory of terminology (concept, concept system, description of a concept, term, assigning a term to a concept)
- neology
- language for specific purposes
- · normalisation.

Much attention is devoted to practical aspects, including:

- the in-house GenTerm terminological record
- · term extraction practice
- terminology management (using SDL MultiTerm)
- terminographical products.

In the translation technology sessions, students get hands-on experience with current translation tools and reflect on their use. Most sessions will focus on working with Trados (as this is the current market leader), but other tools will also be used for comparison (e.g., Matecat, memoQ, Lilt). Topics that will be covered include:

- Preprocessing: preparing source files for processing with translation tools
- Translating various file formats
- Working with and maintenance of translation memories
- · Integrating termbases
- Working with machine translation
- File exchange
- Insight into the entire workflow: project management (e.g., calculate project statistics, measure overlap between segments to translate and the Translation Memory) and Quality Assurance (QA) (e.g., spelling and grammar checking, tag verification)

Initial competences

The general competences that may be expected from an academic bachelor, preferably in a discipline related to the course of studies. This course builds on certain competences of the course Introduction to Translation Technology.

Final competences

- 1 Reflect on the importance of subject-specific terminology.
- 2 Be able to manually and automatically create term lists.
- 3 Critically evaluate translation technology tools.

- 4 Make a motivated choice about the technology to be used, depending on the type of source text.
- 5 Use the right tools in a meaningful way when translating.
- 6 Be able to learn to work independently with new translation tools.
- 7 Be aware of the possibilities and limitations of machine translation.

Assessment moments

continuous assessment

Examination methods in case of periodic assessment during the first examination period

Examination methods in case of periodic assessment during the second examination period

Examination methods in case of permanent assessment

Participation, Assignment

Possibilities of retake in case of permanent assessment examination during the second examination period is possible

Extra information on the examination methods

- Assignment Terminology 45%
- Assignment Translation Technology 45%: a translation project with the help of CAT tools, integrating different competences seen in class.
- Participatie 10%: students are expected to actively participate during class and to submit the exercises on Ufora when completed.

For the second sessions, students need to hand in both assignments. Students need not re-submit assignments from the first examination period for which they obtained a pass. They retain their marks for this assignment but have to re-sit the other part.

Calculation of the examination mark

See heading 'Extra information on the examination methods'.

In order to pass, the student must hand in both assignments by the proposed deadline

If the student does not submit one of the assignments, they cannot receive a passing grade for this course. The final score - if higher than 7/20 - will be reduced to 7/20.

Facilities for Working Students

Possible exemption from educational activities requiring student attendance.

Limited possibility of feedback by e-mail or during consultation hour, restricted to answering specific questions.

Extra information:

The PowerPoints and hand-outs on Ufora can be studied independently. It is not possible to practise the software via the limited feedback option described above. The student may derive some help from online videos (please remember that this is not obvious). Students are asked to regularly check the announcements on Ufora, among other things to be aware of the instructions (including deadlines) for the two assignments.
