Keywords

Localisation, software localisation, website localisation, game localisation, localisation of e-learning

Position of the course

In the translation industry, the term localisation refers to the adaptation and translation of software, games and websites. Recently, e-learning has been added to this list. The process involves more than just translating, and also comprises tasks such as adjusting layout, graphics, help programs, time indications, etc. Specialized localization tools such as Passolo and Alchemy Catalyst support the localization process.

Contents

The course deals with the following topics:

- introduction to the main concepts of localisation;
- technical aspects of localisation (a.o. internationalisation, encoding, support of different formats);
- cultural aspects of localisation;
- localisation of software programs and online help files;
- localisation of websites;
- localisation of games;
- localisation of e-learning.

Initial competences

The general competences that may be expected from an academic bachelor, preferably in a discipline related to the course of studies.

The student has a basic knowledge of English and a basic knowledge of at least one of the following languages: Dutch, French, Spanish or German.

Final competences

- 1 having advanced knowledge of the localisation process and, based on that knowledge, critically assessing localisation technology tools;
- 2 localising digital contents (software applications including user interfaces and online help files, websites, games and e-learning);
- 3 during the translation process, making use of terminological resources (a.o. the Microsoft Language Portal), style guides and specific localisation tools;
- 4 having advanced knowledge of the specific technical and cultural aspects of localisation.
- 5 having a basic understanding of HTML code (HTML elements and attributes, structure of an HTML document)
