Teaching languages

English

Keywords

English, LSP, economic, business, language acquisition, grammar, vocabulary, communicative skills

Position of the course

The students acquire communicative skills in English in a general economic and business context.

This way the course contributes to one of the programme's central objectives, viz. teaching students to communicate effectively in foreign languages.

Contents

Texts: reading and listening texts on human resource management, consumer behaviour, entrepreneurship, business communication etc.

Vocabulary: general economic vocabulary

Grammar: use of the tenses, interrogative sentences, syntax and word order, adverbs and adverbials, relative clauses, modal auxiliaries, prepositions, adjectives and nouns, and linking words.

Oral skills: introducing oneself, asking for/giving information, asking for/giving opinions, dealing with facts and figures, mini-presentations etc.

Written skills: writing short business messages.

Initial competences

The students' level of English should correspond to that of the final objectives for pupils at the end of secondary school in Flanders. This includes adequate practical knowledge of English as well as good oral and written skills, in addition to sufficient understanding and relevant attitudes for learning to communicate in English in a general economic and business context. CEF: B1.

Final competences

- 1 Be able to actively use thematic business vocabulary.
- 2 Be able to apply the major grammatical rules in a general economic and business context.
- 3 Be able to write short and simple general economic and business texts.
- 4 Be able to read and understand recent articles on business and society.
- 5 Be able to formulate short and simple oral messages in a general economic and business context.
- 6 Be able to listen to and understand short business messages.
- 7 Be able to use a number of tools critically to support the learning process.
