Position of the course

The students acquire advanced communicative skills in a general economic and business context.

This way the course contributes to one of the programme's central objectives, viz. teaching students to communicate effectively in foreign languages.

Contents

Texts: reading and listening texts on manufacturing processes, accounting and financial management, business ethics etc.

Oral skills: presentations (including presenting figures and graphs) and complex group interactions (discussions).

Written skills: long texts in which students learn to process complex data and express their personal opinions.

Initial competences

Final objectives for Economic English I.

Final competences

- 1 Acquire and be able to actively use advanced thematic business vocabulary in English;
- 2 be able to write business texts in English at an advanced level;
- 3 be able to process recent texts on business and society in English;
- 4 be able to contribute to complex oral interactions in English (possibly in group);
- 5 be able to listen to and process business messages in English.
- 6 be able to use a number of tools critically and in line with academic integrity to support the learning process (incl. responsible use of GenAI where relevant).
