Position of the course

The success of an organization largely depends on its human capital and the way in which it is (mis)managed. A good knowledge of the basic principles of human resource management is therefore essential in a managerial or business-administrative function. This course also pays attention to some sustainability topics, such as career management with specific focus on the individual employees. This course offers a general introduction to the field of human resource management (HRM), addressing all subdomains of the HR cycle.

Contents

- Introduction to strategic HRM
- Job analysis
- Recruitment
- Selection (and in a sustainable and objective way assessing candidates)
- Training and development
- Performance management
- Reward management
- Career management and providing sustainable support to employees' careers
