Contents

Shortened track: the focus of the orientation internship is in the first weeks of the academic year in which the students are prepared for their regular internships.

Integrated track: the orientation internship is spread over two semesters where a slow gradual build-up is aimed for.

In the lectures:

- Initiation and orientation in the preparation of a lesson with special attention to the teacher as a facilitator of learning and development processes and as a cultural participant;
- Initiation and orientation in lesson observation with particular attention to the teacher as a facilitator of learning and development processes and as a cultural participant;
- Orientation on the final attainment levels and curriculum objectives.

In the working lectures:

- Gradual build-up from drafting a lesson preparation, peer evaluation and reflection to carrying out an actual cultural studies lesson

Fieldwork:

- Following a cultural studies teacher and limited participation in a school context: observing, delving into subject matter knowledge, functioning in a school context.

Internship:

- Study support of learners with diverse backgrounds (OKAN, disadvantaged...)

Course content-related study coaching

Fieldwork supervision is provided by a subject mentor in the school.

The lectures and guided exercises are supervised by practical assistants and educational policy makers from the Eduma cultural sciences.

The internship is supervised by external partners.

Evaluation methods

continuous assessment

Examination methods in case of periodic evaluation during the first examination period

Examination methods in case of periodic evaluation during the second examination period

Examination methods in case of permanent evaluation

Portfolio, participation, job performance assessment

Possibilities of retake in case of permanent evaluation examination during the second examination period is possible in modified form

Extra information on the examination methods

Students are prepared for this orientation internship in a lecture that makes expectations, goals, and tasks explicit. In addition, students receive content sessions that prepare them to observe the mentor and the classroom event, to achieve attainment of final attainment levels and curriculum objectives, and to prepare an actual cultural studies lesson.

During the working sessions, students develop, step by step, under supervision and through peer review, a lesson preparation that can potentially be used for internship A. The students first carry out this lesson preparation in a safe environment of fellow students.

Fieldwork: the students get a taste of a school context by shadowing a cultural studies teacher for a full day. They observe and participate (duoteaching, supervising, attending meetings...)

Cultural Studies teachers are faced with an increasingly diverse educational world. Therefore, during their internship, students provide tutoring to learners from diverse backgrounds.

Calculation of the examination mark

Students will be evaluated on their portfolio and their didactic and agogic skills.

In this internship in a broad educational context, the evaluation will take into account the following 6 functional wholes:

FG1: the teacher as a facilitator of learning and development processes

FG 2: the teacher as educator

FG 3: the teacher as content expert

FG 4: the teacher as an organizer

FG 7: the teacher as a member of a school team

FG 8: The teacher as a partner of external parties

FG 9: The teacher as cultural participant

Failure to participate in one or more components of the evaluation may result in failure to pass the entirety of the course unit. If the final score would be a mark of 8 or more out of 20, this will be reduced to the highest non-delinquent mark (at most 7/20).

(Approved)

Facilities for Working Students
