Position of the course

This course unit contributes to the realisation of the basic teaching competencies and the study programme competencies of Ghent University's Master of Science in Teaching, as set out in the study programme sheet and the competency matrix, which can be consulted on www.ugent.be/educatievemaster

Contents

As attendance in this course is mandatory, this course cannot be added to the curriculum as of week 3.

The following theoretical topics are covered in this course unit:

- Theories on foreign language acquisition, methods in foreign language teaching
- Using the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR)
- The adult learner and adult education

- Variables that influence foreign language learning
- The four skills: expanding on the subject matter
- Grammar and vocabulary
- Giving feedback
- Online module on distance learning and blended learning

The following topics are covered in the seminar:

- Working with curricula of different educational institutions
- Formulating lesson objectives
- Didactic methods in foreign language teaching
- Observation skills (i.a. with co-teaching)
- Reflecting on one's own teaching practice and those of fellow students

Initial competences

Students are expected to have sufficient discipline-specific knowledge before starting the course unit. The access requirements for the teaching methodologies are regulated. More information can be consulted via www.ugent.be/educatievemaster.

For the sake of content alignment between Internship A and Teaching Methodology A, students are advised to include these courses simultaneously in their curriculum.

Final competences

- 1 Students have an understanding of foreign language acquisition theory and translate this understanding into teaching practice.
- 2 Students know the various methods in foreign language teaching and can analyze approaches critically according to principles on effective language teaching.
- 3 Students know the characteristics of the adult learner and know which variables influence foreign language acquisition.
- 4 Students have an understanding of the workings of adult education.
- 5 Students can design effective vocabulary and grammar instruction.
- 6 Students can use the CEFR in designing lesson materials and assessments.
- 7 Students can formulate appropriate lesson objectives and design a well-constructed, structured and content-rich lesson preparation, taking into account the learners' initial situation.
- 8 Students can select appropriate and varied didactic methods to contribute effectively to the development of the skills and knowledge components.
- 9 Students can select appropriate didactic methods in a context of blended learning, distance learning and online learning, and critically reflect on the suitability of technology for achieving lesson objectives.
- 10 Students can give purposeful and motivating feedback on the process and product of learners.
- 11 Students can observe and report effectively, and draw meaningful conclusions from observations for their own teaching practice.

Conditions for credit contract

Access to this course unit via a credit contract is determined after successful competences assessment

Conditions for exam contract

This course unit cannot be taken via an exam contract

Teaching methods

Seminar, Independent work, Peer teaching

Extra information on the teaching methods

Interactive seminars. Students may be asked to prepare sessions (e.g. read through a theoretical chapter, selecting exercises in lesson materials, bringing a textbook).

Peer teaching: students teach a short micro lesson with exercises on two or more of the four skills.

This course assumes the responsible use of generative artificial intelligence (GAI).

During the course, what this means will be explained.
