General sessions on language didactics: students attend three lectures focusing on theoretical concepts and frameworks in language didactics. These frameworks are subsequently applied within the subject-specific didactics. In the case of a spread curriculum (e.g., the Master of Teaching after a bachelor program), students follow these 3 lectures in parallel with their first Teaching methodology course.

Initial competences

Students are expected to have sufficient discipline-specific knowledge before starting the course unit. The access requirements for the teaching methodologies are regulated. More information can be consulted via www.ugent.be/educatievemaester.

For the sake of content alignment between Teaching Methodology French and Internship French, students are advised to include these courses simultaneously in their curriculum.

Since attendance in classes is mandatory, the course unit cannot be included in the curriculum from lesson week 3 onwards.

Final competences

- 1 Students have insight into theoretical aspects of second language acquisition and language didactics and translate this insight into teaching practice.
- 2 Students know various methods in foreign language teaching (French) and can critically analyse approaches in light of principles of effective foreign language teaching.
- 3 Students can determine the initial situation of learners of French, analyse their needs, and understand the context of French language education in Flanders.
- 4 Students can select and use appropriate media to design lesson content that connects with learners' background and experiences.
- 5 Students can select and apply appropriate and varied didactic methods for French language education (both blended and distance education), adapted to the target group's initial situation.
- 6 Students can formulate appropriate lesson objectives and develop a well-structured, coherent and content-rich lesson plan that takes into account the context and learners' initial situation.
- 7 Students know principles for effective didactics of skills (reading, listening, writing, speaking), knowledge (vocabulary, grammar), and literature.
- 8 Students can assess (aspects of) French language proficiency using appropriate formative and summative assessment methods and provide suitable feedback.
- 9 Students use appropriate attainment targets, curricula and CEFR descriptors when designing teaching materials and lesson plans.
- 10 Students can identify and remediate language problems among learners of French as a foreign language.
- 11 Students can select appropriate materials and methods to develop research competencies in secondary-school pupils.
- 12 Students can critically engage with academic literature and evaluate which methods and didactic teaching approaches are most suitable for specific learning objectives in French as a foreign language.
- 13 Students have advanced proficiency in French (C1) and can convey learning content to learners in fluent, accurate and appropriately adapted language.

Extra information on the examination methods

- End-of-term assessment: written open-book exam.
- Continuous assessment: based on peer teaching (micro-lessons and accompanying lesson plan) and a written assignment.

Class attendance is mandatory.

Calculation of the examination mark

The end-of-term assessment accounts for 50% and the continuous assessment for 50% of the total score.

For a total of 20 points: each micro-lesson counts for 3 points (6 points in total), the exam for 10 points, and the assignment for 4 points.

Students who eschew one or more parts of the assessment can no longer obtain a pass mark for the course unit. Should the final mark be higher than 10/20, it will be reduced to the highest non-tolerable mark (i.e. 7/20).

Facilities for Working Students

To be determined in consultation with the responsible teacher.
